Hi Angela,

I think so. The www.epaosc.org websites are pretty technical. They're basically written by OSCs for other OSCs, but they ARE open to public review, so I would say "Yes" to sharing the website address. We included it in the residential fact sheets, so it's been advertised. Right now, there's not very much up there, but we'll continue to populate it as our work progresses.
Thx

Trish,

Do program and communications folks in R3 generally know to refer people to this site if they have questions about Dimock? If not, would you be alright with me sharing the hotlink more widely?

Angela
